ABSTRACT

This is the first yearbook published under the new name--the National Association for Public Continuing and Adult Education (NAPCAE); however, the activities recorded took place while the organization was still called the National Association for Public School Adult Education. Statistics of public continuing and adult education deal with adult education legislation, imperatives for action, state support for adult education, educational attainment, work experience patterns, teachers' salaries, enrollment data, expenditures, and administrative and instructional personnel. Directories present lists of state organizations associated with NAPCAE, state department personnel, voluntary associations, federal government agencies, graduate programs, and the organizational chart of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Also included are NAPCAE's membership and a directory of advertisers. The appendix gives NAPCAE's constitution and publications, as well as its regional representatives. (NL)

INTRODUCTION

This is the first edition of the Almanac published under our new name—the National Association for Public Continuing and Adult Education. However, the activities recorded herein took place while the organization was still called the National Association for Public School Adult Education. The name change, which was a part of the constitutional revisions adopted on December 9, 1969, became effective January 1, 1970. For our purposes the new acronym, NAPCAE, is pronounced the same as the old acronym, NAPSAE.

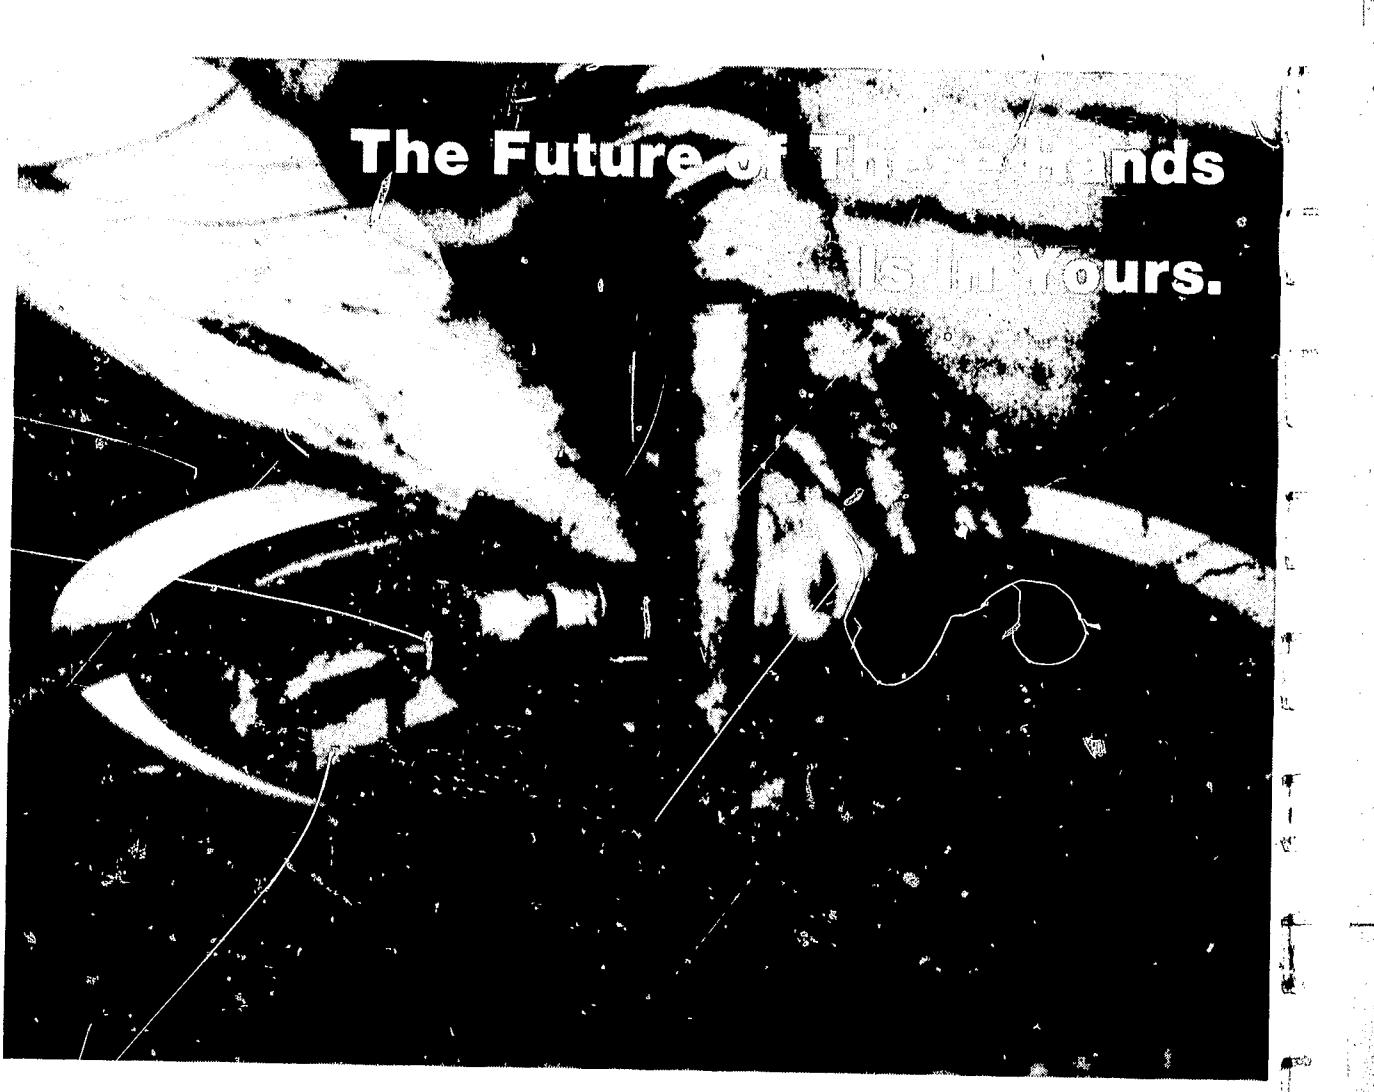

The popular and useful features of previous editions of the Almanac are repeated and updated in this 1970 edition. Our new Constitution is included in its entirety, and members are urged to acquaint themselves with it. Suggested constitutional changes are welcomed and should be sent to the chairman of the Constitution Committee, Clyde E. Weinhold, immediate past president.

Perhaps the most widely acclaimed feature is the section on state support for adult education. State directors of adult education again responded to our request for information and enabled us to assemble the only collection of up-to-date information of this nature available anywhere. We are indebted to the state directors and their staffs for their continuing cooperation.

For the third year the general editor is Mrs. Margaret Samet, NAPCAE's capable administrative assistant. She provided the leadership for what was a group effort involving many people from many staffs.

We now have a new name, a changing image, and broadened membership criteria. Anyone who supports our purpose, which is to give leadership to the development and implementation of public and continuing adult education, is eligible for membership in NAPCAE. On page 159 you will find a tear-out membership/publications order form. It is for your use. We also hope that you will send us your suggestions on ways in which we can improve our Almanac next year. This is your publication. May you find it a useful

WHAT IS NAPCAE?

The National Association for Public Continuing and Adult Education, a national affiliate of the National Education Association, exists to give leadership to the development and implementation of public continuing and adult education in the United States. Until December 31, 1969, the organization was known as the National Association for Public School Adult Education. The new name was adopted unanimously in a constitutional change designed to denote a wider range for potential service and membership. Before the constitutional changes were enacted, members had to have some functional connection with public school adult education programs; membership is now open to anyone who supports the purpose of the Association. Emphasis remains on publicly supported adult and continuing education programs in such institutions as elementary, junior and senior high schools; community and junior colleges, college and university extension and evening divisions; correctional institutions; and government educational agencies—federal, state and local.

There are four NAPCAE membership categories with the following annual dues: Active—$20; Associate—$5; Institutional—$50; Emeritus—$5. There is also a Subscription Service available at the same annual rate as an Active Membership, $20. At the end of 1969 the active membership was approximately 2,200 and the associate membership 4,000. The goal for 1970 is a minimum of 3,000 active members and 5,000 associate members. A newly created category is the Institutional Membership. Each institutional member receives two copies of all of NAPCAE's regular publications and has the right to designate one person as an active member from the institution. Institutional and active members and publication subscribers receive the Public Continuing and Adult Education Almanac and the three newsletters—Techniques for Teachers of Adults, Administrators Swap Shop, and the Pulse of Public Continuing and Adult Education. Associate members, largely teachers, receive Techniques. Emeritus members must be former active members who have retired.

NAPCAE maintains its national offices in the headquarters building of the National Education Association in Washington, D.C. There are 29 state affiliates of NAPCAE, one national affiliate—the National Council of State Directors of Adult Education—and another national group which will officially become affiliated with NAPCAE during 1970—the National Council of Urban Directors of Adult Education. These affiliates maintain active programs in such areas as legislation and improvement of professional standards and in general perform such functions at the state and local levels as does NAPCAE at the national level. A financial rebate is granted annually to each state affiliate for each of its active members who is also an active member of NAPCAE.

NAPCAE is incorporated as a business league and maintains year-round surveillance of Congressional activities as they relate to adult and continuing education. It has received favorable national attention for its aggressive yet responsible legislative activities. In addition to its regular publications, it also publishes special publications from time to time. During 1969 two new publications were Administration of Continuing Education, edited by Nathan Shaw, and Teaching the Disadvantaged Adult, by Curtis Ulmer. Scheduled for publication early in 1970 is A Second Treasury of Techniques for Teaching Adults, by Virginia Warren.

During 1969, NAPCAE was actively involved in a number of special projects. It conducted an evaluation of the adult basic education program in the state of New Hampshire, developed a highly acclaimed visual/auditory word recognition test under contract with the Flint (Michigan) schools, developed a national plan for professional development in adult education for the U.S. Office of Education under a contract with Florida State University, conducted an evaluation of the adult education operations within the Colorado State Department of Education, and carried out a series of professional development seminars under contract with the state department of education in Maine. Executive Secretary James R. Dorland welcomes inquiries from institutions or organizations who would like to learn more about NAPCAE's special field services.

NEA AND NAPCAE

On June 1, 1969, the Division of Adult Education Service of the NEA and the former NEA Department, the National Association for Public School Adult Education, became separate operational and fiscal units. This followed a period of more than 17 years during which the NEA—through its Division of Adult Education Service—provided the staff for NAPSAE as well as many other direct services.

Following the June 1 reorganization, the offices of the two operations were rearranged to give separate identity to each unit. However, the staff members of NAPCAE and the Division continue to occupy the same general suite of offices and there are frequent opportunities for continuing consultation.

Robert A. Luke, who had served in the dual capacity of executive secretary of NAPSAE since its founding in 1952, and as director of the Division of Adult Education since 1962, resigned on May 12 as executive secretary of NAPSAE to become full-time director of the Division. On that same date, James R. Dorland, formerly associate director of the Division, was named executive secretary of NAPSAE. Richard W. Cortright was appointed assistant director of the Division of Adult Education Service. Carl E. Minich continued as coordinator of Project Interchange.

Continuing Programs of the Division

The NEA Adult Education Clearinghouse. This program, formerly operated with the fiscal and staff cooperation of NAPSAE, is now the full responsibility of the Division. The Clearinghouse obtains, processes, and disseminates information about all aspects of adult education. Particular attention is given to elementary level and high school completion programs for adults. The Clearinghouse collects books, catalogs, newspaper clippings, project proposals, curriculum guides, case histories, training designs, evaluations of training programs, names of resource specialists, effective news releases, bibliographies of instructional materials, slides and filmstrips.

The Clearinghouse also contains the most single comprehensive collection of information on adult education in Latin America. This collection is on loan from the Adult Education Association of the U.S.A.

The Clearinghouse supplies written answers to requests for information about adult education by providing (1) copies of documents (when possible), (2) summaries of information, (3) referral service, and (4) by citing references.

Project Interchange. The primary goal of the Project is to transfer to the preventative programs for pre-dropouts operated by public schools the skills and methods developed in the remedial education programs of the Job Corps.

Until the present time, the major thrust of the Project has been in helping individual school districts improve their instructional program for educationally disadvantaged young adults. This has been done by arranging for teams of teachers from selected local schools to participate in various kinds of intern experiences at Job Corps conservation centers. A less intensive, though still substantial phase of the program has been the dissemination of information—through a filmstrip, publications and representations at professional meetings—about the teaching skills, techniques, and materials developed not only by the Job Corps, but by the school districts involved in Project Interchange. For the next 12 months a stepped-up effort to work more closely with NEA units and with state and local associations in the dissemination of Project Interchange findings will become a major program responsibility.

New Areas of Service

The Division staff is now developing a gradual expansion and enlargement of its service program.

Service to state and local associations in professional negotiations. The Division will be of service, working through the regional offices of the NEA, to state and local associations wishing to make the extension and development of educational services to adults a part of the agreements concerning instructional services now being increasingly considered as an important aspect of professional negotiations.

Improving salaries. The Division will work toward the improvement of the salaries and fringe benefits (hospitalization, sick leave, annual leave, etc.) of part-time instructors, specifically those in the field of adult education. A variety of benchmarks to guide in salary negotiations has been developed.

Encourage consideration of school dropouts in contract negotiations. The Division staff, in cooperation with the Research Division and by use of its publication, Negotiation Research Digest, is identifying, collecting, and filing negotiation agreements—either proposed or agreed to—which call for boards of education to make available opportunities for elementary and secondary education to dropouts who wish to return to school. Working through appropriate staff in regional and state offices, the Division will encourage the inclusion of such items in an expanding number of negotiated agreements.

Promote development of comprehensive programs. Members of the Division's staff will serve as consultants in identifying the elements of a comprehensive adult education program capable of making a difference in meeting pressing economic and social needs of American society. The information thus developed (curriculum objectives, administrative and salary standards, guidelines in selections of materials, etc.) will be made available, through the NEA regional offices, to state and local associations wishing to add adult education program aspects to the negotiation package.

Dropout prevention. At the present time there is no NEA unit charged specifically with focusing NEA concern on the early school leaver. A variety of circumstances is placing the Division increasingly in this area.

The Division of Adult Education Service is now in the unique position of being able to serve the total educational profession, and bring to the profession's attention the responsibilities and opportunities it has for providing to adults the same opportunities for an education that it does to children.

READING DEVELOPMENT KITS:

(Junior-Senior High School & Adult Education)

READING DEVELOPMENT is a high interest, three-kit program for improving the reading skills of adolescents and adults. Boxed lessons provide high motivation materials of graded readability gradually increasing in difficulty from a beginning reading level into senior high school. The interest level of all three Kits is aimed at more mature adolescents, young adults, and adults.

READING DEVELOPMENT Kit A is a learning laboratory designed to aid in teaching the older disabled reader who is in secondary schools and adult education programs. Kit A is also useful material for teaching English as a second language.

READING DEVELOPMENT Kit B contains materials at the approximate reading levels of the intermediate elementary grades. Kit B may be used in reading improvement programs at the junior and senior high school levels. Kit B is also a valuable remedial reading laboratory for adults.

READING DEVELOPMENT Kit C is designed for adolescents and adults reading at the approximate grade levels 7 through 10-plus. Kit C provides reading and English instructors, guidance counselors, study-skills teachers, and adult educators with a program that covers a range of advanced reading levels, yet meets individual interests and learning rates. Emphasis is on reading as a learning tool.

Each self-contained Kit contains:

- 1) Two to four copies of each student lesson on durable, individual cards separated into levels of reading difficulty.
- 2) An Instructors' Manual containing descriptive material, bibliographies, and detailed suggestions for using the Kits.
- 3) Progress Records which serve as the individual student's personal, self-scoring answer book and achievement chart.
- 4) Informal Inventories, both pre- and post-testing forms, provide a simple procedure for screening, placing, and assessing students. Regular reading achievement tests and teacher evaluation are also recommended.

With emphasis on relevance of content and flexibility of usage, the READING DEVELOPMENT Kits allow each student to succeed immediately and progress at his own rate. READING DEVELOPMENT (Three self-contained kits; junior-senior high school, and adult education and English as a second language.) AWAWARENESS in Education

NAPCAE'S 17th ANNUAL CONFERENCE

NAPCAE's 17th annual conference took place in a spectacular setting as a part of the largest adult education gathering ever held—the Galaxy Conference on Adult Education, at the Sheraton Park and the Shoreham hotels in Washington, D.C., from December 6-11. Some 3,000 adult educators registered for the Galaxy Conference which featured several joint sessions in addition to the regular annual conferences of the participating organizations.

NAPCAE's conference began with a Teachers' Day whose more than 600 participants heard stimulating speeches by adult education philosopher and poet, Robert Blakely, and NEA's Lawrence Derthick, former U. S. Commissioner of Education. HEW Deputy Secretary James Farmer keynoted the NAPCAE conference with remarks geared to the conference theme, "Creating a Learning Community for the 1970's." Small work groups explored in depth the problem-solving process of confrontation, search, and coping throughout the conference. At the Fellowship Luncheon Senator Jacob Javits implored the adult educators to lobby aggressively in behalf of NAPCAE-sponsored legislation, to extend adult basic education through high school. The final general session of the NAPCAE conference heard AASA President-elect Harold Eibling, superintendent of the Columbus, Ohio, public schools, describe an ideal learning community from the standpoint of a big city superintendent of schools.

Other NAPCAE conference highlights included a German buffet dinner and entertainment at the Rockville, Maryland, Civic Center; a NAPCAE Wives Tour of the White House; entertainment by the U. S. Air Force Band and Singing Sergeants, and the Montgomery County Orchestra; committee meetings open to all members for the first time; and "Meet the Author" sessions with the authors of the chapters of NAPCAE's new book, Administration of Continuing Education. Secretary of State William Rogers delivered a major foreign policy address at the Galaxy Conference.

The NAPCAE business meeting saw the adoption of sweeping constitutional changes including the new name, the National Association for Public Continuing and Adult Education, and a new membership/dues structure. A policy statement, "Imperatives for Action" for adult and continuing education, was adopted at the business meeting. This was in keeping with the Galaxy theme, "Learning to Change: A Social Imperative." The Board of Directors voted for the Association to become a member of the newly forming organization, the Coalition of Adult Education Organizations.

John B. Holden, director of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Graduate School, served as overall chairman of the NAPCAE conference, and President Clyde Weinhold, director of the Bureau of Adult and Continuing Education in the New Jersey State Department of Education, represented NAPCAE on the Galaxy Conference Planning Committee. Mrs. Norma Day, director of adult education in Montgomery County, Maryland, served as local arrangements chairman.

ADULT EDUCATION LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY

Very few tangible legislative accomplishments in the area of adult education were reported during the first session of the 91st Congress. NAPCAE-sponsored legislation to extend adult basic education through high school was introduced in the Senate (S. 1663) by Senator Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) and in the House (H.R. 13616) by Representative Carl Perkins (D-Ky.). NAPCAE representatives testified in favor of both bills. Neither was acted upon by the end of the first session (see following box). Perhaps the most controversial education issue faced by the Congress was the Appropriations Bill for educational programs. With the fiscal year half over at the time of the Congressional adjournment in December, the fiscal year 1970 appropriations measure had not yet been passed and faced the threat of a veto by President Nixon. Educational programs were funded through January 30 under terms of a continuing resolution which permitted funds to be expended at the same rate as during the previous fiscal year, FY 1969. The only major education bill passed during 1969 was the guaranteed student loan bill (P. L. 91-95) which raised the effective interest rate on student loans to 10% and increased the authorizations on three other loan programs.

IMPERATIVES FOR ACTION<sup>1</sup>

THE TASK

To achieve an effective and balanced system of adult and continuing education in the United States it is essential:

1. That the role of the Coalition of Adult Education Organizations be formalized and strengthened;
2. That the Coalition in turn give leadership to the establishment of a political action unit with responsibility for influencing legislation at state and federal levels;
3. That together the Coalition and the political action unit lend fullest efforts to the achievement of the following Imperatives for Action:

I. TO ELIMINATE EDUCATIONAL DEFICIENCIES OF AMERICAN ADULTS

More than eight million Americans over the age of twenty-five have less than five years of formal schooling, and millions more lack a high school education or its equivalent. Through adult and continuing education, these millions can be raised to new educational levels that will provide them with new and improved economic, political, and social opportunities.

Illiteracy. We support the concept advanced by Commissioner of Education James Allen in his pronouncement on "The Right to Read," and urge a total commitment on the part of all adult and continuing education agencies to raising each American to a level of literacy.

High School Education for Adults. We consider the completion of high school or its equivalent by every adult to be the minimum level of educational attainment acceptable in today's complex society and urge fullest efforts to achieve this goal.

To secure these ends, we urge Congress to enact legislation that will provide state and local educational agencies with annual support of $500 million.

At the same time, a concerted effort must be made to secure increased funds from private industry, trade unions, private foundations, and other nonpublic agencies. State and local educational agencies should not only continue their present levels of funding but also increase their financial efforts.

We further urge the present Administration in Washington to undertake studies to reassess on-going programs for the undereducated and make recommendations to the Congress concerning the most effective means of distributing federal funds to community educational agencies.

II. TO STRENGTHEN ADULT AND CONTINUING EDUCATION AND COMMUNITY SERVICE EFFORTS OF COMMUNITY COLLEGES, COLLEGES, AND UNIVERSITIES

The nation's need for well informed citizens, coupled with the personal needs of its people for an understanding of the world in which they live and the skills with which to earn their livings, gives emphasis to the need for increased levels of post high school education.

We endorse the national objective set forth by the Congress, that two years of post high school education, adapted where necessary to the occupational needs of adults, be made available to all who are capable of benefiting from it.

The clear need to support adult and continuing education in community colleges, colleges, and universities was recognized by the Congress with the enactment of Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965. Designed to support established programs of extension, to provide community services, and to assist in the establishment of such programs in institutions of higher education, Title I has provided an effective instrument. Unfortunately, appropriations have lagged far behind authorizations. In the present fiscal year, Title I is funded at $9.5 million rather than the $50 million that was authorized.

We urge minimum annual funding of Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965, at $100 million a year, with national priorities to be spelled out anew each year, to meet the changing needs.

III. TO PROVIDE ADULT AND CONTINUING EDUCATION IN THE ARTS AND HUMANITIES, PUBLIC AFFAIRS, AND IN THE DEMOCRATIC PROCESS

Opportunities for life-long learning in the arts and humanities, and in public affairs, are essential to the preservation of our freedoms. To solve problems rationally and peacefully, we must continually acquire new social and political competencies, and the powerful and privileged must learn equally with the powerless and deprived.

There is an over-riding urgency for people to be informed and to be equipped to make informed judgments in matters that strike to the heart of our democratic society. To this end, we urge major funding of programs of adult and continuing education in public affairs and in the democratic process.

Of equal importance is the need for each person to experience the fullest flowering of the human spirit. To achieve this goal, we urge greatly expanded funding for the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

IV. TO IMPROVE FINANCIAL SUPPORT FOR ADULT AND CONTINUING EDUCATION

Much of adult and continuing education is dependent on income from tuition and fees. As a result, many adults forego instruction because they cannot afford the tuition and, in turn, agencies tend to conduct only those courses which will produce sufficient revenue. Many essential needs thus go unmet. A comprehensive program of adult and continuing education will be provided only when adult and continuing education receives financial support comparable to that presently provided to elementary, secondary, and higher education.

We urge vigorous efforts to secure full funding on the part of the Congress for authorized programs serving adult and continuing education, and the development of new and imaginative programs to further meet these needs. At the same time, we urge equally vigorous efforts on the part of the private sector to provide vastly expanded support and leadership.

V. TO PROVIDE ADEQUATE AND APPROPRIATE OPPORTUNITIES IN ADULT AND CONTINUING EDUCATION FOR PERSONS IN LOW INCOME GROUPS

Most adult and continuing education programs fail to reach low income and undereducated groups. Instead, programs draw largely from well educated middle class groups. The reasons are numerous and sometimes difficult to ascertain. One factor is financial. Courses and workshops that must be self-supporting will draw only those students who are able to pay. Consequently, they will meet only the educational needs of the more affluent. Further, most promotional materials are printed, and, therefore, appeal essentially to a more literate clientele. Both the programs and the communications relating to them are aimed at the middle and upper economic groups.

New and aggressive programs must be instituted with a view to increasing the percentage of enrollments of low income and undereducated students.

Educational programs must be taken into the neighborhoods where people live rather than being conducted mainly in central facilities such as schools, colleges, and universities.

Existing programs of adult and continuing education must be examined to insure that they are relevant to the needs of the 80 percent of the adult population that does not presently participate in such programs.

New and effective multimedia programs must be undertaken.

VI. TO STRENGTHEN WITHIN OUR EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS THE SUPPORTING STRUCTURE FOR ADULT AND CONTINUING EDUCATION

Adult and continuing education is too often thought of as being apart from the traditional educational process. It is seldom integrated with the elementary and secondary establishment, and its status in higher education is ill defined. Adult and continuing education must become a recognized responsibility of the educational establishment, must achieve its full commitment and support, and must attain fuller public understanding of its vital importance to society.

VII. TO URGE NATIONAL NONGOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS TO STRENGTHEN THEIR ROLE

We recognize the importance of national nongovernmental voluntary organizations in providing adult and continuing education, and urge these groups to strengthen their role and expand their efforts so that society may receive increased benefits from the full utilization of these unique resources.

VIII. TO INCREASE PUBLIC AWARENESS

A national campaign should be launched to acquaint Americans with the importance of life-long learning, and to gain their greater support for adult and continuing education.

IX. TO ACHIEVE HIGHER LEVELS OF FEDERAL SUPPORT AND COORDINATION

The U. S. government should establish appropriate instrumentalities to provide leadership in adult and continuing education, and to develop co-operation among the many public organizations operating in this field.

The Adult Basic Learning Examination

By Dr. Bjorn Karlson
Dr. Richard Madden and
Dr. Eric F. Gardner

The Adult Basic Learning Examination (ABLE) has been developed to meet the growing demands for effective measurement of competence and achievement in those programs of adult education which are created for adults who have had little or no formal schooling.

Potential uses of the test include initial placement of students, continual assessment of progress and evaluation of program completion. Grade scores derived from an equating with Stanford Achievement Test provided.

Level I parallels grades 1-4.

Level II parallels grades 5-8.

Level III, paralleling grades 9-12, is scheduled for 1970 publication.

Special edition of ABLE is available for MRC machine scoring.

For only 5¢ a week, an adult student can build vocabulary, boost his reading power, and learn about the world!

How's that for getting your money's worth!

Teachers of adult basic education find they get more mileage from YOU AND YOUR WORLD than just about any other classroom publication.

Each weekly issue of this high-interest, easy-to-read newspaper costs only 5c per student and provides . . .

. . . news of the world and nation, to acquaint your students with current affairs and to build vocabulary,

. . . a comprehensive reading skills improvement program,

. . . regular weekly columns on vocational and financial guidance, so urgently needed by many students.

YOU AND YOUR WORLD helps in so many curriculum areas that many teachers use it as the core of their program.

Perhaps you could too.

To find out, mail the coupon below and receive a FREE copy of YOU AND YOUR WORLD and its accompanying Teacher's Edition.

ARTICLE IV

Officers

6. The officers of the Association shall serve as officers of the Board of Directors.
7. The officers and the immediate past-president as a group shall serve as the Executive Committee of the Board of Directors, with responsibilities for submitting agenda for all meetings and with power to act for the Board of Directors during the interim between meetings of the Board of Directors. 2. The terms of office of the twelve (12) elected directors shall be two (2) years. The elections shall be so staggered that six (6) directors shall be elected annually.

The directors shall take office at the beginning of the annual meeting following their election and shall serve on the Board until their successors have been qualified.

A director shall not serve for more than two (2) terms consecutively.
